From 30 January to 1 February 2018, the cross-border conurbation of Greater Geneva will host, at the Palexpo Exhibition and Congress Centre, the 19th edition of the European Energy Transition Conference!

During the 3 days nearly 3,500 participants from all over Europe - representatives of the public authorities, economic and academic worlds and the civil society, are awaited to exchange views on and debate the energy transition of the regions around the leitmotif « Cooperate in order to make a success of energy transition ».

Transport, town planning, agriculture, economics, renewable energies, new technologies, management of information systems, new solidarities and governance... The European Energy Transition Conference is the opportunity for the local governments and players to bring their vision of the current major issues and share their experiences and solutions, through over a hundred appointments- plenary sessions, workshops and theme visits.

So like every year, numerous spaces and events will be proposed around the Energy Transition Conference such as the « Energy Transition Village», the « Energy Transition Jobs Forum » or again the « Off Programme» - a programme with over 80 activities to be discovered covering the whole of the Greater Geneva area.
