

2020 EUROPEAN ENERGY TRANSITION CONFERENCE, IN BORDEAUX

Last chance to take part in the call for the program contributions !

Deadline : July 12, 2019

From 28 to 30 January, the 21st edition of the European Energy Transition Conference – the annual appointment for the local and regional players committed to energy transition and adaptation to climate change – will be held in Bordeaux. As every year, the co-organizers of the event – Bordeaux Métropole, the Dunkirk Urban Community, Greater Geneva and ADEME, are launching a call for contributions in order to co-construct the edition's general program.

Mobility, town planning, rurality, the circular economy, employment, new technologies, management of information systems, social innovations, cooperation or again planning... Until 12 July at 5 p.m., all the local and regional players committed to energy – elected representatives, citizens, businesses, researchers, university dons, industrialists, or again technicians are invited to submit their contribution proposals for the program of workshops for the next edition on the website www.assises-energie.net.

Among the workshop formats to choose from: « Inspiration » (experience sharing workshops), « Challenge » (co-creation workshops) or encore « Speed-dating » (idea sharing sessions for project owners).

Find all this information on the dedicated website: www.assises-energie.net,
And follow all the European Energy Transition Conference news on Facebook, twitter and Linkedin

Back to European Energy Transition Conference website