26 to 28 September 2016, in Nantes:
1st edition of the global Climate Chance conference!

Launched on 2 December last within the Climate Generation Spaces of COP21*, Climate Chance is set to become a regular global appointment for the non-state actors committed to fighting climate change. Local authorities, businesses, associations, unions, scientific bodies, citizens, are invited to attend this conference which should enable stock to be taken of the action worldwide, in-depth exchanges on both the successes and the difficulties, the promoting of the pooling of experience and innovations, the emphasising of the opportunities resulting from this resolute fight against climate change. Hosted by Nantes, the first edition of Climate Chance will be held from 26 to 28 September 2016 at the Nantes Congress Centre (La Cité) and should bring together several thousand participants from all over the globe.

To be noted: the speeches by major personalities on climate action, including the Minister for the Environment, Ségolène Royal, Jean Jouzel – a Climatologist and Nobel Peace Prize winner, Anne Hidalgo - Chair of the C40, Gérard Mestrallet, on behalf of the Carbon Pricing Leadership Coalition, Wael Hmaidan - director of CAN International or again Hoesung Lee – Chairman of the IPCC...
